HPN Global Promotes Horton to President, International Division

Scottsdale, Ariz. (July 14, 2010): Hospitality Performance Network Global, the world's most global site selection and meeting procurement company, announced today the promotion of Kip Horton to President, International Division.

This comes on the heels on HPN Global's continued success to grow its footprint around the globe. He is moving from his previous role as Senior Vice President, Sales Europe and India, where he helped with the recent merger that immediately made HPN a true global player in its field.

Kip will now work more closely with the senior membership team to place the right associates in the right markets to better serve their widening base of clients. With the support of Bill Kilburg, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Joe Forster, President and Chief Operating Officer, the team can now focus on those markets that have been identified as prime for the type of service delivery and best practices HPN Global is known for as it continues to grow its international reach.

Kilburg said, "This move for Kip is a natural progression. He will continue to build on the successful partnerships we have developed in the Middle East with Al Ketbi Consultancy, while sharing best practices and creating new strategic partnerships in India, China and other developing markets in Europe, South America and Asia."

"With our ever expanding team of associates in the world HPN Global is now poised to bring their signature services to clients based anywhere in the world and in turn, support an even greater number of our superb Hotel partners needs," says Horton.
